

“I sincerely believe they have a lifetime of experiences to share, making the medical encounter often a unique experience.”

About May Montrichard, MD

Dr. May Montrichard is an accomplished family physician who earned her medical degree at the George Washington University in Washington, D.C. before serving as a military physician. Her 21-year military career took her around the world to Korea and Germany before she retired as a Lieutenant Colonel. Dr. Montrichard went on to share that knowledge with students at the University of Florida for several years as a Clinical Assistant Professor before opening her private practice, which she operated for 16 years.

Dr. Montrichard chose to join the Dedicated Family and focus on seniors because, “I sincerely believe they have a lifetime of experiences to share, making the medical encounter often a unique experience.” She enjoys helping her patients stabilize issues they may have with a goal of retaining their independence and improving their quality of life.
