

“I always try to put myself in their shoes, provide personalized care, and treat them the way I want my family to be treated.”

About Indira Martinez Anthony, MD

Dr. Indira Martinez Anthony saw the impact that doctors made at her first job—where she worked as a secretary in a private clinic. The experience led her to become a passionate physician who is board certified in family medicine. “It’s rewarding to help patients and see their quality of life improve,” says Dr. Martinez Anthony. “I always try to put myself in their shoes, provide personalized care, and treat them the way I want my family to be treated.” Hearing the different perspectives that seniors share is an added bonus. When she is not seeing patients, Dr. Martinez Anthony reads journals to keep up with medical research. She also loves to spend time with her husband and family, cook, dance and visit the beach.
