“What I love most is making connections with patients and helping improve their quality of life.”

About Melanie LetoBarone, MD, FAAP

Passionate about science and making a difference, Dr. Melanie LetoBarone considers it a privilege to care for others. While she’s board certified in internal medicine and pediatrics, Dr. LetoBarone feels her calling is to serve seniors. “Seniors are the heart of society,” she says. “They’ve given so much and deserve the best in return.” Part of that means providing the kind of care that she’d want her family to have. “What I love most is making connections with patients and helping improve their quality of life.”

In her down time, Dr. LetoBarone likes to keep up with medical advances, read, research her genealogy, cook, and spend quality time with family. Together, they love to explore the outdoors, go to theme parks, and travel.
