“My brightest days come from being with and taking care of others, especially those in need.”

About Jennifer Casey, MD, MHA, FAAFP

Dr. Jennifer Casey’s love for science and people started when she was a teenager—and it has only grown during her career as a board-certified family medicine physician and healthcare leader. “My brightest days come from being with and taking care of others, especially those in need,” she says. “Having time to listen to seniors, appreciate their histories, and advocate for their health are favorite parts of my day.” In addition, Dr. Casey considers it an honor to work alongside other committed healthcare workers.

During down time, she likes to keep up with medical research, entertain family and friends, cook, and volunteer in the community. Dr. Casey also enjoys spending time on Lake Erie and hiking historical sites around the world.
