About Regina Harper, ANP-C

As a nurse practitioner, Regina Harper cares for people by listening and viewing them “not just as parts or diagnoses but as living human beings.” She takes pride in educating and helping her patients. She especially loves seeing patients improve and manage their diseases at home. Regina Harper views herself as a part of a team with her patients and their families. One of her goals is to teach patients how to recognize and manage certain symptoms and diseases. “It helps to save lives and to prevent adverse outcomes when educated properly,” she explains.

When Regina Harper is not caring for and educating patients, she adores spending time with her family. She is a horror film aficionado and loves exploring and going on adventures.
