About Jonathan Wald, DACM

Whether flipping through The Anatomy Coloring Book or receiving acupuncture for his own ailments, Dr. Jonathan Wald has always wanted to be a doctor. “As a physician, it is my duty to educate patients on how they can improve their health and quality of life,” he says. Dr. Wald loves seeing patients “enjoy things that they couldn’t before” and takes pride in serving the senior population. “I am humbled to be a part of their lives and healing,” he says. Dr. Wald emphasizes preventative care in his practice and strives to treat his patients like family.

In his spare time, Dr. Wald loves gardening, walking, and exploring new places with his children. For several years, Dr. Wald also served as the dean of an acupuncture school.
