About Arezo Farhangi, MD

Dr. Arezo Farhangi’s grandfather inspired her to pursue a career in healthcare. As a physician, she considers herself an advocate for her patients, especially the seniors. “It’s rewarding to help my patients live the most healthy life they can,” Dr. Farhangi says. She views her patients as people first and strives to get to know each one. Dr. Farhangi prides herself on truly listening to her patients, so she can “better understand their background, goals, values, and wishes.” She explains, “They know their body better than the physician, so listening is the most important thing when communicating with patients.”

Dr. Farhangi loves spending time with her daughter and painting in her free time. She also enjoys cooking and gardening.
