

“My favorite part of being a physician is listening to patients and helping them achieve better health.”

About Mukesh Agarwal, MD

Growing up, Dr. Mukesh Agarwal watched his father care for patients, which inspired him to pursue a career in healthcare. He explains that he is “joining ChenMed to continue to fulfill his passion of helping and caring for people.” His favorite part of being a physician is listening to patients and helping them achieve better health. Dr. Argarwal strives to always “treat them with respect and dignity.” He encourages his patients to be honest about their needs and wants to “help them understand their questions about health.” He adds, “The doctor is your friend and guide.”

When Dr. Agarwal is not caring for patients, he loves spending quality time with his family. He also likes traveling and collects both stamps and coins.
