

“Patients need to understand their medical conditions, and they need to be included in the decision-making process.”

About Vlad Badescu, MD

At only four years old, Dr. Vlad Badescu knew he wanted to follow in the footsteps of his parents and become a physician. His favorite part of working in healthcare is interacting with patients. “I enjoy knowing my patients in detail,” he says. Respect and dignity are key in his practice, and he believes “mutual trust” is “the core value for good quality healthcare.” Dr. Badescu adds, “Patients need to understand their medical conditions, and they need to be included in the decision-making process.” He wants patients to feel welcomed and heard.

In his free time, Dr. Badescu loves fishing, reading, and going to the beach. He also enjoys painting and recently started taking ballroom dancing classes.
