“One of my goals is to enhance my patient's quality of life. I focus on educating my patients and offering support.”

About Patrick Berger, DO

Dr. Patrick Berger was inspired to work with the senior population by his aunt. He explains, “She told me that if I should become a doctor, I should concentrate on caring for the elderly, trying to keep my patient’s independent and healthy for their remaining years.” This had a lasting influence on him. He explains, “One of my goals is to enhance my patient’s quality of life. I focus on educating my patients and offering support.” To help build strong relationships with patients, he actively listens and treats each patient with empathy, compassion, respect, and honesty.

When not caring for patients, Dr. Berger enjoys attending conferences and reading journals or other online sources to keep up with the latest medical advancements.
