“I want patients to know that I will be their best advocate when it comes to their health and try my best to serve them in the best way possible.”

About Manasi Sule, MD

As a physician, Dr. Manasi Sule aims to empower patients and help them achieve “a better quality of life.” She explains, “I want patients to know that I will be their best advocate when it comes to their health and try my best to serve them in the best way possible.” She especially enjoys caring for the elderly and providing them with autonomy and “the respect they deserve.” She adds, “I think of caring for them as caring for my own grandparents.” To keep up with the latest medical advancements, she often conducts research and reads medical journals.

In her down time, Dr. Sule enjoys playing with her dog and spending time with family. She is also an amateur photographer and loves taking nature photos.
