“I always like to help people.”

About Isabel Victoria Hidalgo Acosta, MD

Dr. Isabel Victoria Hidalgo Acosta knew as a teenager that she wanted to work in healthcare. “I always like to help people,” she says. Her favorite part of being a physician is interacting with patients. She likes educating them about prevention and “seeing how they improve their chronic medical conditions.” She especially loves the opportunity to help improve the quality of life of her senior patients. She explains that she is “dedicated” to listening to her patients’ concerns “during every encounter.” She adds, “I am friendly, with open heart and ears available.”

When Dr. Hidalgo Acosta is not caring for patients, she can be found reading, exercising, or traveling. She also enjoys gardening and taking photos.
