“I love being able to take the time to understand their individual needs and concerns, allowing me to provide personalized care.”

About Chevonne Singh, DNP, APRN-BC

Chevonne Singh’s decision to pursue a career as a nurse practitioner was influenced by her “desire to promote health and wellness” and “advocate for patients in a holistic manner.” She explains, “I love being able to take the time to understand their individual needs and concerns, allowing me to provide personalized care.” She strives to create a “welcoming environment” and “makes it a priority to follow up” with patients. She especially enjoys empowering her senior patients and “helping them navigate the challenges that come with aging.”

In her free time, Chevonne Singh loves making memories and enjoying quality time with her family. They especially enjoy traveling together and exploring new destinations.
