About Jennifer M. So, DPM

Dr. Jennifer M. So cares deeply about family and her local community. “I pursued my path as a podiatrist to serve the community. I wanted to work closely with the elderly, so they can get back on their feet and spend time with their families,” she explains. Prevention and education are key parts of her practice. “Small actions have big consequences,” she says. She adds that she is “happy to be a part of an interdisciplinary team” with other physicians. She enjoys forming genuine connections with patients and often bonds with them over sports.

In her free time, Dr. So loves practicing yoga, explaining that it helps exercise both the body and mind. She also shares that she is proud to be a first-generation American.
