“I use active listening skills to make them feel seen and heard. I work with them to gain trust and take in consideration current lifestyle choices.”

About Candias Smith, APRN, MSN, FNP-C

Candias “Candi” Smith grew inspired to work in healthcare after watching the in-home nurses care for her step-father after he suffered a stroke. She takes a “holistic approach,” setting both long and short-term goals. She also maintains “compassion and comfort” at the forefront of her practice. She strives to help patients make informed decisions, explaining, “I use active listening skills to make them feel seen and heard. I work with them to gain trust and take in consideration current lifestyle choices.” She especially loves caring for the elderly population.

When not with patients, Candi can be found cheering for her kids at their numerous sporting events. She also enjoys reading mysteries, solving puzzles, and working out.
