“I am driven by a strong commitment to deliver compassionate, patient-centered care that addresses both physical and emotional needs, especially to those who may feel overlooked or underserved.”

About Jessica Yurasek, MS, APRN

Jessica Yurasek’s decision to pursue a career in healthcare was “driven by a strong commitment to deliver compassionate, patient-centered care that addresses both physical and emotional needs, especially to those who may feel overlooked or underserved.” She values patient autonomy and always encourages patients to be involved in the decisions surrounding their care. She loves learning about her patients’ lives and empowering them. In her practice, she emphasizes the importance of “preventative strategies and practicing thoughtful medication management.”

In her free time, Jess can be found cheering for her two kids at their soccer games. She also enjoys staying active and is currently learning Spanish.
