About Jonathan Divine, D.O.

For Dr. Jonathan Divine, being a physician is his “life’s calling.” He explains, “I have chosen to work in geriatrics because I want to honor and show these individuals that they still have value and purpose in life.” He believes in treating patients “holistically” and enjoys getting to know both them and their families. “It is my job to help my patients understand their own health, the necessary steps to maintain and maximize their health, and help them steer through the course of their medical care with understanding and sound decision-making,” he says.

In his free time, Dr. Divine can be found enjoying time with his family. They especially love playing board games, hiking, and staying active in their church.
