“I consider it my privilege to be part of the ChenMed family to improve the health of seniors and look forward to providing more good days to those under my care.”

About Arti Madhavan, MD, MBA, FAAFP

Dr. Arti Madhavan’s “sincere wish to contribute meaningfully to society” led her to a career in medicine. She explains that her “dedication to improving patient outcomes combined with a practice style that values empathy, collaboration, and accountability” allows her to make a positive difference as a clinician. She deeply values “patient-centered care” and loves championing for her seniors’ health. “I consider it my privilege to be part of the ChenMed family to improve the health of seniors and look forward to providing more good days to those under my care,” she says.

In her free time, Arti loves spending quality time with her family and giving back to her community by volunteering with both local and national organizations.
