“Ensure seniors are treated with respect and autonomy and kindness.”

About Flura Dawde, M.D.

For as long as she can remember, Dr. Flura Dawde has wanted to help people by becoming a physician. She strives to “ensure seniors are treated with respect and autonomy and kindness,” explaining, “Seniors often face loneliness, chronic illness or loss.” Dr. Dawde believes in “listening first and treating second,” explaining that she wants patients to “share their concerns without interrupting.” She adds, “Feeling heard builds trust.” She is committed to prevention, improving the quality of life of her patients, and “helping families navigate difficult decisions with clarity and empathy.”

Dr. Dawde loves spending her free time with her family and friends. She also enjoys cooking, going on walks, and traveling.
