

“As we all live longer, I am dedicated to helping people keep a high quality of life as we age.”

About Usha Pasupuleti, MD

Dr. Usha Pasupuleti grew up in a medical family, but it was her own experience facing a serious health condition at a young age that truly shaped her path. "I became committed to becoming the kind of doctor I was fortunate enough to have experienced as a patient," she says. Dedicated to helping people maintain a high quality of life as they age, Dr. Pasupuleti has deepened her expertise through specialized Geriatrics fellowship training. "As we all live longer, I am dedicated to helping people keep a high quality of life as we age," she says.

Dr. Pasupuleti believes that great care starts with great communication. "I care about what you have to say," she says. By truly listening to her patients, she hopes to help them prioritize their health and well-being — so they can enjoy their day-to-day lives to the fullest.

When not with patients, Dr. Pasupuleti enjoys hot yoga, baking, and spending quality time with family and friends.
