“I would like my patients to know that I am very dedicated to my profession, and that I have experience in patient care.”

About Iliana Natalia Rodriguez, APRN

Iliana Natalia Rodriguez who has been working in healthcare for over 30 years, first chose to pursue a career in healthcare to “positively influence people’s health.” Empathy is key in her practice. She loves serving as “an advocate” and “establishing a strong relationship with patients based on mutual respect, empathy, listening to them, and maintaining clear communication.” She explains that she treats patients as “individuals” and always pays attention to their individual needs. “I would like my patients to know that I am very dedicated to my profession, and that I have experience in patient care,” she says.

When she is not caring for patients, Iliana enjoys reading and interior decorating.
