“My goal is to create a safe, compassionate space where your voice matters, your dignity is preserved, and your quality of life always comes first.”

About Biye Tambang, MSN, APRN, AGNP-C

Biye "Bibi" Tambang, was drawn to medicine by a profound desire to make a compassionate, tangible impact during life's most vulnerable moments. She is especially passionate about the senior population, whose wisdom, resilience, and complex health needs call for a truly holistic, patient-centered approach. "Older adults often navigate multifaceted chronic conditions that require more than a one-size-fits-all solution," she says.

Bibi empowers patients to actively manage their chronic conditions and advocates for their overall well-being. "My goal is to create a safe, compassionate space where your voice matters, your dignity is preserved, and your quality of life always comes first," she says. Her approach is rooted in partnership, authenticity, and unwavering advocacy — shifting the focus from reactive to proactive wellness.

When not with patients, Bibi loves traveling the world, discovering new restaurants, tending to her garden, cooking, and giving back to her community through church outreach. A self-described book nerd, she is rarely without a good read across a wide range of genres.
